NOT ONE WAS SAVED

Crew of a Wrecked Schooner
All Drowned.

NINE MEN, A WOMAN AND CHILD.

They Clung to the Rigging Until the Last.
The Schooner Nahum Chapin Went Aground and Was Dashed to Pieces on the Long Island Coast Near Quogue.
Names of the Lost.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The three-masted schooner Nahum Chapin, Captain Arey, of Rockland, Me., coal-laden from Baltimore for Boston, went ashore near Quogue, L. I., at an early hour yesterday morning, and her entire crew, consisting of nine men, was lost, in sight of hundreds of people who had gathered on the beach, but were powerless to render assistance. The vessel went ashore at 4:30 a. m. At that hour there was a thick rain falling, and, while it was not foggy, there was a mist sufficient to make objects very indistinct at a distance of 200 yards. The wind was blowing from the southeast at a velocity of about 30 miles an hour, and a surf was rolling upon the beach.

The vessel pounded for nearly two hours after she first struck, and the waves drove her gradually in-shore, and finally she went to pieces, crumbling before the fury of the mighty waves as if she were an eggshell. At 6 o'clock Captain Charles Herman of the lifesaving service, assisted by his men, brought their apparatus from the house to a point just opposite the wrecked vessel, but when they shot out their line it was too late to be of any service. The sailors, who, from the moment that one of the patrolmen had sighted the schooner, were in the rigging, dropped off one by one into the seething waters, and soon after one of the bodies, that of a big, swarthy Swede, was washed ashore.

At the last moment it was seen that two of those who were clinging to the rigging of the foremast were not men, as had been supposed, but that one was a woman and the other was a child. It was supposed that the woman was the wife of Captain Arey, of the schooner, and that the child was their child.

The lifesavers worked manfully. Their first line fired from the mortar fell across the yards, but slipped away over the side and was lost. The second landed in the rigging, but the men were unable to secure it, and it was also lost. A third attempt was also ineffectual, and then the crowd of villagers who gathered on the beach saw the last of the men fall from the rigging and disappear in the surf, which at this time was running unusually high.

The life-saving crew made an attempt to launch a lifeboat, but they were repulsed each time by the breakers, and although bystanders encouraged the brave fellows in every possible manner, they had to desist, after struggling, half-frenzied by the appalling sight of their fellows being drowned within such a short distance of the shore, and pushed the boat high up on the beach.

The crew of the schooner, nine in number, were shipped in Boston last November. The names follow:

Captain Arey resided in Malden, Mass., where a widow and three children survive him.

The officers and crew were as follows:

First mate, Alfred E. Davis of Malden, who leaves a widow and one child.
Second mate, John Neiber, place of residence unknown.

Steward, Lewis A. Maddox of Cambridge, who leaves a widow and several children.

The seamen who shipped just previous to the schooner's sailing were Albert Lowe, Roy Anderson, Victor Stevenson, Oscar Anderson and Anthony Lucyanich. The residences of the seamen are unknown.

The schooner was valued at about $15,000, and is partially insured. The cargo consisted of bituminous coal, consigned to the West End Street Railway company. The cargo, valued at $3,400, is fully covered by insurance.

The principal owners of the schooner Nahum Chapin were Peter McIntyre & Company of Boston. Captain R. E. Arey, who commanded the vessel, was part owner.

Quogue is situated about 35 miles east of Fire island, and it is the first point where the ocean touches the mainland beyond the great South bay.

The Nahum Chapin was a three-masted schooner, built at Rockland, Me., in 1832. She registered 567 tons and was 145 feet long, 35 foot beam and 15 1-2 feet deep.

A BOTTLE MESSAGE.

It Signifies the Loss of the Crew of the Bark Ladrás.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Jan. 22.—A bottle has been picked up on South beach, seven miles below here, which contained a message stating that the bark Ladrás had foundered at sea on Jan. 15. The message was written on some small sheets of paper and was signed by Captain Gonzales. It was a log of the vessel from the time she left port until she foundered.

According to the message the Ladrás left Boston Jan. 3, under the command of Captain Gonzales and manned by a crew of 12 men. On Jan. 13 the vessel sprang a leak, but the carpenter managed to partially stop the influx of water. On Jan. 14, however, the water began to pour into the hold in great volume. The pumps were manned and the men worked day and night, but at noon on Jan. 15, it was apparent that the vessel was doomed. The captain and crew then took to the boats, and had hardly got clear of the vessel when she went down.

The message concludes: "We have but little food and water and must perish unless soon picked up."

It is believed by seamen here that the bark went down during the gale prevailing off the Florida coast last week. The fear is also expressed that the boats with the crew were swamped.

Dutch Bark Completely Wrecked.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 22.—The lugger Pharon, Captain Bran, has just arrived here having on board Captain H. Engelman and 13 men, being officers and crew of the Dutch bark Croningen, wrecked Jan. 12 on the partly submerged Lost island. The bark, which belonged to her commander, is a total wreck.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

Election Contest Settled in the House and a Deadlock in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—After a two-days' debate, in the course of which considerable partisan passion was aroused and an ineffectual attempt to filibuster for the purpose of gaining time, the house decided the contested election case of Yost vs. Tucker, from the Tenth Virginia district by denying the seat to Mr. Yost and confirming Mr. Tucker's title thereto. The Republicans were badly divided, 54 of them joining with the Democrats and supporting the claims of the Democratic contestee.

When the supporters of Mr. Yost's contentions found they were defeated by a narrow margin of eight votes (the vote being 119 to 127 against him) they inaugurated a filibuster in the hope of gaining time and for two hours there was a succession of rollcalls but they were finally overpowered by numbers and the resolutions confirming Mr. Tucker's title to his seat were adopted. Mr. Yost is a member-elect of the next house and Mr. Tucker, who is a son of Randolph Tucker, has been a member of the last four congresses. He declined a renomination because he did not agree with his party on the money question.

In the debate yesterday Messrs. Thomas (Rep., Mich.), Taylor (Rep., O.), Lacey (Rep., Ia.), Bruman (Rep., Pa.), Thorp (Rep., Va.) and Walker (Rep., Va.) spoke for Mr. Yost, and Messrs. Dearmond (Dem., Mo.), Walker (Rep., Mass.), Tucker (Dem., Va.) and McCall (Rep., Mass.) supported the claims of the contestee.

In the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The senate was on the verge of a deadlock late yesterday and for a time there were prospects of a protracted test of endurance, extending the session late into the night. Mr. Morgan, in charge of the Nicaraguan canal bill, was determined to secure a time for a final vote. This was resisted, however, by Mr. Turpie and Mr. Vilas. Thereupon Mr. Morgan announced that he would ask the senate to "sit out" the bill, remaining in continuous session until a vote was forced. This evoked sharp criticism. Mr. Vilas finally made a dilatory motion, which, on rollcall, disclosed the absence of a quorum, and Mr. Morgan was obliged to give up his plan for the time, although he expects to execute it if an agreement for a vote is not reached.

Mr. Turpie concluded his speech against the Nicaraguan canal bill, the third day being a continuance of the former bitter invective directed against the measure.

During the day Mr. Chandler presented the credentials of John Edward Addicks, claiming the vacant seat as senator from Delaware. The claim of Henry A. Dupont for the same seat has already been presented.

In the course of a discussion of laying electric conduits in the Washington streets, Mr. Hill (Dem., N. Y.) spoke against trusts and monopolies in general as a serious menace to the public welfare.

MINERS' STRIKE UNSETTLED.

Six Thousand Inhabitants of a Town Are Nearly Destitute.

SPRING HILL, N. J., Jan. 22.—The strike of the 3,000 men and boys in the Spring Hill company's coal mines here continues, and it is impossible to tell when work will be resumed. The miners' union at the Joggins mine have notified the strikers' committee that they will support the men here financially and in every possible way. The miners of the Cape Breton coal region are also assisting the strikers.

The fire which broke out in the east slope of the mines here last month is still burning, and now the west slope is threatened. The walls built up to check the flames are becoming heated in many places, and mining experts here say the east slope is doomed, and that the west slope is in great danger.

The 6,000 inhabitants of the town are nearly destitute.

Nine Houses Burned.

WHEELING, Jan. 22.—Shortly after midnight this morning a fire started in Mingo Junction, O., 20 miles north of Wheeling, which wiped out nearly the entire business portion of that town. An overturned lamp at a card table is said to be the cause. Nine houses were destroyed, and the property loss is estimated at about $50,000. A fire engine was brought from Steubenville to put out the fire.

Long Strike Promised.

MASSILLON, O., Jan. 22.—The coal operators of the Massillon and Jackson districts will resist the payment of a 2-cent differential for mining over the Hooking valley price, as decided upon by the miners at their national convention. They say that the question was once settled for all time by arbitration.

INDEPENDENCE ONLY

Terms on Which the Cubans
Will Stop Fighting.

SPANISH PROMISES NOT HEEDED.

Autonomy or Other Reforms Will Never Satisfy Those Cubans That Are Now in the Field—Statement Issued by Tomas Estrada Palma, President of the New York Cuban Junta.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Tomas Estrada Palma, president of the Cuban junta, has issued the following statement:

"So much has lately been said of the probability of the termination of the Cuban revolution by the acceptance on the part of the Cubans of autonomy, or reforms, that I feel it incumbent upon me, as the accredited representative of the Cubans, to make a brief statement on the subject.

"Reforms were passed by the Spanish cortes but the outbreak of this revolution was not thereby stayed one hour. There was, and is, but one idea for which the Cubans are fighting. We have had enough of so-called reforms, enough of promised autonomy. Every intelligent man would rightly condemn the leaders and participants in this movement if anything short of independence were the basis of a treaty of peace with Spain. It is claimed that General Gomez is willing to treat with Spain on the basis of autonomy and that a letter to that effect has been received by me. There is no such letter. He is made of too stern material to surrender on any such terms, particularly when in his latest letters to me he writes contentedly of his resources and glowingly of his convictions that this winter's campaign will be most successful.

"But even though any one of our foremost leaders should be inclined to terminate the war by the acceptance of autonomy (which is barely within the bounds of possibility), while he himself might surrender, he would do so alone. We Cubans are not worshippers of individualities; we are steadfast followers of our ideas. The death of our glorious Maceo brought sorrow to the hearts of every Cuban, but we did not falter; his forces did not surrender; the revolution received no perceptible check. The leader who proposed peace under the Spanish flag would find himself without followers. No treaty of peace can be made by the Cubans unless ratified by a specially convened assembly. It is beyond the bounds of possibility to expect that the Cubans after two years of sanguinary strife when they find themselves in a position such as has never been their good fortune to occupy, in point of numbers, equipment and resources, will now weakly accept terms of compromise. Every Cuban, every American knows that the apparent generous and conciliatory spirit of Spain springs not from her strength, but from her weakness. How can we then, under the circumstances, be expected to waver.

"If the Cubans in the field are too strong to even consider such proposals, the Cubans in the cities are too well advised of Spain's plans and Spain's precarious situation to counsel this step.

"In these cities, Spain's only stronghold, men of position, of refinement, of wealth, have but lately signed a statement, in which they unequivocally say to those in this country, who seem to labor under the error that autonomy would be a solution of the so-called Cuban problem, that nothing short of independence is acceptable to them. They base the statement not only on political, but also on economic reasons.

"What form of autonomy would help Cuba, when saddled not only with her previous debt, but with the added burden of the cost of the present war? The future of the country would be ruin and starvation.

"News of our success in the field may be suppressed by the censor; pacification of the island provinces may be falsely proclaimed, as in the case of Pinar del Rio; decrees allowing grinding of sugar may be issued, where all cane has been destroyed; promises of reforms and autonomy given and annuities promulgated; foreign countries may by these means and by mendacious Spanish diplomacy be cajoled into the belief that Spain is mighty, is generous, and that we are weak, are ungrateful, but we Cubans will continue to fight for independence first, last and all the time. Our leaders may fall, but others will take their places. The opportunity will find the man. Gomez himself has written that even should he fall, the revolution is strong enough to continue to its triumph. The only excuse we will have for having begun the war will be its triumph; the only fitting monument for our fallen comrades, the independence of their country."

At the office of the junta the statement which follows was also given out: "Murders committed in Guanabacoa, during a week:

"Lieutenant Colonel Narciso Fonsdevela, being mayor of the city.

"Nicholas Hernandez while proprietor of a tackle factory, is known as an honest man and representing the Autonomist party.

"Andrés and Santiago Ruiz, mulattoes, well educated and honest, owners of an undertaking establishment and of a cafe and billiard room in Palo Blanco street.

"Joseph A. Bella, white, proprietor of a livery stable; honest man.

"Luis Nunez, white, a man without reproach.

"Ramon Satolongo, white, employee and nephew of the Marquis De La Real Proclamacion.

"Pedro Y Jose Acosta, white, a clerk.

"Justo Garcia, white, clerk, superintendent of a store.

"Ramon Mata, white, clerk.
"Juan Manuel Pastoriza, celebrated pitcher of the Alomondares base ball club and a very popular young man.

"Two employees of Mr. Almagro, owner of the Maria station.
"All honest people and of good antecedents, their only crime being that of being Cubans."

BATTLE AT RANCHUELO.

Severe Fighting and Many Were Killed on Both Sides.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—A special to The World from Key West, Fla., says: Ranchuelo, in Santa Clara province, garrisoned by 500 Spaniards, was surprised 10 days ago by a Cuban force, under Major Gerio, with 300 men. One fort was captured before the garrison had time to rally, and the other surrendered. The Cubans began sacking the town, but the Spaniards, soon received reinforcements, and drove off all the insurgents except about 50, who barricaded themselves in the stone church.

The Spaniards, finding they could not take it by storm, managed to mine under one end of it and blew it up, killing 25 Cubans. The insurgents returned with an increased force and routed the Spaniards. More than 75 Spaniards are said to have been killed and 38 taken prisoners. Major Gerio was wounded in the head. Several Spanish officers were killed. The Cubans captured 100 stands of arms and some provisions. Three of their prisoners, who were Cuban-born, were hanged.

THROUGH CENSORSHIP.

Spanish Accounts of the Skirmishes With the Insurgents.

HAVANA, Jan. 22.—General Vasco, while reconnoitering in the province of Pinar del Rio, has killed in a skirmish the well known local insurgent leader of Guanajuay, Ledesma, formerly manager of the Rogalado plantation, as well as Gaspar Sobrado and Nodarz, both insurgent leaders who took up arms at Pozas since the outbreak of the present insurrection. Several other insurgent officers are said to be among the killed. It is reported that their bodies have been identified.

Colonel Vara del Rey, during three days' reconnoitering in the north of the Sierra Maestra, from Scandell to Gran Piedra, province of Santiago de Cuba, has had a skirmish with the insurgents, who lost 16 killed. The troops also destroyed 200 huts.

A detachment of insurgents Wednesday attacked the laborers at work on the Jobo estate, this province, killing two guerrillas and two laborers and wounding 10 more of the latter.

General Milquizo, while reconnoitering at the San Carlos farm, at Mena, and on the heights of Virginia, has destroyed an insurgent camp and captured 100 firearms. The insurgents left two men killed and retired with their wounded.

DELGADO BURIED.

Funeral Services Over the Remains of the Late Correspondent.

HAVANA, Jan. 22.—Henry Delgado, the correspondent of the New York Mail and Express, who was captured in an insurgent hospital in Pinar del Rio, and was brought to Havana for trial some weeks since, and who died in the San Ambrosio hospital on Tuesday from an abscess which formed in the thigh, was buried yesterday at the cemetery of Colon, under the direction of the American hospital service, of which Dr. Burgess is the surgeon.

The hearse, which was supplied by Consul General Lee, conveyed the remains from the hospital to the cemetery followed by carriages containing Consular Clerks Roswell and Tosca, the representatives of the Associated Press and several American newspapers and various resident Americans. The regular service of the Catholic church was said at the cemetery. The wife and child of Mr. Delgado are in New York.

WILLIAM WALKER'S KIDNAPERS.

One of Them Has Confessed and Ten of Them Have Been Arrested.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Jan. 22.—The whole story of the White Capping of the colored man, William Walker, is out, and 10 arrests have been made. One of the White Cappers, James Graham, turned informer. Each of the arrested men have been released on $300 bail on a charge of kidnaping.

There were 18 in the party, but only five broke into the house, the leader of whom was Henry Noll, with whose divorced wife Walker was suspected of living. Noll has not been caught. The White Cappers had a rope around Walker's neck and talked as if they would hang him, when it was suggested to flog him. While preparing to tie him to a tree he escaped, but they chased him, clad only in his underclothing, a mile when he found shelter in a farmer's house.

He Was One of the Most Prominent Civil Engineers in the West.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 22.—Colonel F. B. Moulton, one of the most prominent civil engineers in the west, is dead, aged 87 years. Colonel Moulton was born in Boston in 1810. In 1838 he entered West Point as a cadet. He there completed his studies and became engineer of the Chesapeake and Ohio canal, constructed on the left bank of the Potomac, from Georgetown to Cumberland, this being the first and most important canal built in this country.

In 1836 Colonel Moulton constructed the Lexington and Frankfort railroad, of which Henry Clay was the president. He was afterward chief engineer of the Iron Mountain railroad, now a part of the Wabash system.

M'KINLEY'S CALLERS.

Senator Burrows of Michigan
Was One of Them.

WORKING IN ALGER'S INTERESTS.

His Visit Satisfactory, Which Almost Assures That General Alger Will Be in the Cabinet—Prospects of Illinois Being Represented—Ex-Confederates Invite McKinley to a Reunion Next September.

CANTON, O., Jan. 22.—Senator Julius C. Burrows of Michigan, who was in Canton less than a week ago, reached here on the Fort Wayne train yesterday. Accompanying him was Congressman-elect Charles E. Pierce of St. Louis. They were met by Captain Heistand and driven directly to the McKinley residence. Here they were closeted with Major McKinley.

Senator Burrows was seen at the Fort Wayne depot in the afternoon. He said that the conference between Major McKinley and himself was entirely satisfactory, although nothing definite had been reached. When asked as to his mission to Canton, following so quickly on his visit last week, Senator Burrows said he had nothing to conceal in that direction.

"I am here in General Alger's interest and this formed a part of our conversation. Michigan—that is, the Republicans of Michigan—are solidly united for General Alger and the state has but one candidate for the cabinet."

"Will General Alger be in the cabinet, senator?" was asked.

"We all hope so, yet I can not tell, as no definite conclusion was reached. However, I will emphasize my words, the conference with Major McKinley was very satisfactory."

"Would the reported unfriendliness between Senator Sherman and General Alger influence the latter's going into the cabinet?"

"Whatever differences have heretofore existed between General Alger and Senator Sherman do not exist at present, therefore this would in no wise influence General Alger's entrance into the official family. Michigan's location would not interfere, either, with the appointment of a western man, for there is a vast territory west of Michigan."

"Will you visit Canton again?" was asked of Senator Burrows.

"No, I believe not; at least it is my present intention not to. However, I may come this way again."

General Pierce, congressman-elect from St. Louis, when seen at his rooms at the hotel, said he was not in Canton on any political mission and had come only to pay his respects to the president-elect.

Congressional Delegate Nathan O. Murphy of Phoenix, A. T., arrived on the same train with Senator Burrows. He said that he was in Canton to see Major McKinley on personal business, but declined to say of what nature.

Judge Grosscup of Chicago, of the United States district court, also visited Major McKinley. He said to the Associated Press reporter that his visit had been very pleasant and satisfactory. He had come, not as an office-seeker for himself or for any one else, but to talk over the Illinois situation with the president-elect. He had nothing to say of men and when asked about Illinois' cabinet representative, replied:

"I can only say that when Major McKinley announces his cabinet, Illinois will be entirely satisfied."

A. P. Funkhauser, General John R. Roller and General G. W. Hedrick of Harrisonburg, Va., and John A. Gibson of Lexington, Va., who were prominent in arrangements for the ex-Confederate excursion to Canton before the election and who were here yesterday, came primarily to ask Major McKinley to attend a reunion next September on the scene of the conflict, of all who fought on either side in the Shenandoah valley. Major McKinley promised to keep the reunion in mind and be present if his executive duties would allow. This reunion, they said, had been prompted by the excursion to Canton last fall, when their people formed entirely new opinions of northerners and felt a friendliness for them never before experienced. Only such a reunion as proposed, they said, is needed to cement the ties of affection now formed, and obliterate all sectional lines.

They also discussed the participation of the ex-Confederates' Patriotic Legion in the inaugural ceremonies and conferred with and received assistance from Union soldiers here for the arrangements. A reversible blue and gray uniform is proposed. Local G. A. R. men received and entertained the southerners.

There were numerous other visitors from different parts of the country who claimed Major McKinley's attention during the day, and altogether it was one of his busiest days.

President Ratchford of the National United Mine Workers' association and Secretary Miller called to greet Major McKinley yesterday evening, as did also Frederick Halls of New York.

Three Men Badly Burned.

WELLSTON, O., Jan. 22.—The side of the Milton furnace gave way yesterday, perhaps fatally burning John Martin, John Kirby and Jim Waddle, employees. The accident will cause the furnace to shut down for several days for repairs.

Another North Dakota Blizzard.

FARGO, N. D., Jan. 22.—A blizzard has been raging in this section for the past 24 hours and the situation is almost as serious as during any of the former storms this winter. Railroads will be badly blocked.

HERE'S a good one on that class of people who run away from home to buy most every thing they want:

A wealthy and musically inclined citizen of Herman, Mo., wanted a zither, and, like most Missourians, wanted the best on earth. He searched the country over, but couldn't find an instrument good enough, so he ordered one from a European dealer. Upon its arrival he was very proud of it, and examined it closely, but nearly had heart failure when he discovered the maker's stamp, which read: "Washington, Mo., U. S. A.," a town only a few miles from his home.

The naturalists have not as yet been able to answer the burning question, Can bees hear? But their researches along that line have resulted in many queer discoveries. Simply because a bee has no ears on the sides of his head it is no sign whatever that he is wholly without some sort of an auditory nerve. This last assertion is proved by the fact that grasshoppers, crickets, locusts and flies all have their ears situated in queer places—under the wings, on the middle of the body and even on the sides of their legs. The common house fly does his hearing by means of some little rows of corpuscles which are situated on the knobbed threads which occupy the place which are taken up by the hind wings of other species of insects. The garden slug or shell-less snail has his organs of hearing situated on each side of his neck, and the common grasshopper has them on each of his broad, flat thighs. In some of the smaller insects they are at the bases of the wings, and in others on the bottom of the feet.—St. Louis Republic

The question as to whether great men are ever drunkards must be answered in the affirmative, though argument is frequently made to the contrary. Cato was a hard drinker, while, in the language of one writer, old Ben Jonson was constantly "pickled." The poet Savage used to go on the hardest kinds of "tears," and Rogers observed, after seeing his own statue, "It is the first time I have seen him stand straight for many years." Byron says of Porson, the great classical scholar, "I can never recollect him except as drunk or brutal, and generally both." Keats was on a spree once that lasted six months. Horace, Plato, Aristophanes, Euripides, Alcaeus, Socrates and Tasso of the old timers and Goethe, Schiller, Addison, Pitt, Fox, Blackstone, Fielding, Sterne and Steele were all hard drinkers at intervals.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The famous signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

When Young Chief, a prominent member of the Umatilla tribe, in Oregon, goes away for his annual vacation, he is granted the freedom of the state by the following notice to whom it may concern: "Young Chief has permission to visit Wallowa and surrounding country, with various other Indians, to be away 60 days. He is a good, law abiding man and very friendly toward whites. If any of his crowd are boisterous or violate any law, if reported to me, I will have the matter rectified. Any favor shown him will be appreciated. He respects the whites and asks that they respect him."

These pills are easy in action and are particularly effective in the cure of Constipation and Sick Headache. For Malaria and Liver troubles they have been proved invaluable. They are guaranteed to be perfectly free from every deleterious substance and to be purely vegetable. They do not weaken by their action, but by giving tone to stomach and bowels greatly invigorate the system. Regular size 25c. per box. Sold by J. J. Wood, druggist.

MONEY FOR THE TEACHERS.

Checks For a Part Of That Now Due Mailed By the Auditor.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 20.—While there is not enough money in the treasury or the School Fund to pay all the last one-fifth payment due the public schools on January 1st, it has been discovered that there is half enough, and the Auditor, with the co-operation of Superintendent Davidson, to-day mailed checks aggregating one-half of this final payment.

This leaves about one-tenth of all the money due the teachers yet to be paid, and it is doubtful if they get it before all the schools have closed. This is owing to the fact that there will be comparatively little revenue, out of which the school fund gets a share, coming in before July 1st.

INTERCHANGEABLE MILEAGE TICKET.

Mr. E. O. McCormick, of the "Big Four" Railroad, Has Something To Say on the Subject.

Mr. E. O. McCormick, Passenger Traffic Manager of the Big Four company, who has been avowedly the champion of the 5,000 mile interchangeable mileage book, states, in an interview, that some of the criticisms recently published in Central Passenger Committee territory, claiming to emanate from prominent traveling men, are unfair in the extreme.

He says: "The question of the interchangeable mileage ticket is an old one and dates back to the time when claim was made by one of the Commercial Traveling Men's Association for a universal interchangeable mileage book; one that would be good to the north, south, east and west. The advocates of the measure were easily convinced that it would be unwise for the lines to participate in such a book, owing to the fact that the solvent corporations would fear to do business on such a scale with a bankrupt road; and that certain railway friends of the measure, in connection with the representatives of the Commercial Travelers' organization, agreed that it might be possible to issue an interchangeable book good in a particular territory, with that end in view began the agitation of the subject of the 5,000 mile interchangeable book for Central Passenger Committee territory, to be sold by that association, the association acting as a clearing house in the settlement with various roads for coupons collected. The present form of mileage ticket is in accordance with what the representative Commercial Travelers' delegates from various boards of trade and chambers of commerce, at their joint meeting in Chicago last June, declared would be perfectly satisfactory.

"Commercial travelers will readily see that these mileage strips could not be accepted on trains for passage, owing to the liability of loss of some by conductors, and the subsequent loss to the railway honoring the mileage, since the association will only pay for the mileage strips actually collected and sent in by the railway company. The exchange ticket was not put on to harass the traveler, but was the only means by which the railway lines could protect themselves against loss.

"Formerly, when the Big Four sold non-interchangeable 1,000 mile books, and received $20 for same, as coupons were not good if detached, it was a matter of little concern whether the mileage strips reached the Auditor's office or not, owing to the fact that the money for same was in the Treasurer's hands, and no reasonable firm or commercial traveler would for one moment insist that the Big Four company should accept these strips for passage after having explained to them that the statistics of the various auditors show that about fifteen to eighteen per cent. of the mileage in their book never reaches their office.

In answer to the complaint that the traveler might suffer a loss by presenting his book at St. Louis for an exchange ticket to Cincinnati, and after boarding the train got a telegram stopping him at Terra Haute, thereby losing the rest of his ride to Cincinnati, for which he had already paid mileage, Mr. McCormick advises that if such a case should arise, on request, the conductor of the train would note on the back of the exchange ticket "used only to Terra Haute" and that on such showing of fact, the road would promptly rebate the amount of fare between Terra Haute and Cincinnati.

Regarding the traveler not having time to secure an exchange ticket at the depot, he states there would be very few such cases, owing to the fact that a man must necessarily be at the station a sufficient time before the train leaves, in order to have his baggage checked, and that in these isolated cases, explanation being made, the difference in fare could be refunded, on presentation of a claim.

"We do not claim for the present system absolute perfection, but do affirm that the traveling men should accept the book as furnished, using their efforts to popularize same, and waiting at least a little time until improvements can be suggested and made, that will render the handling of the book pleasant and profitable to all concerned."

Your Boy Won't Live a Month.

So Mr. Gilman Brown, of 34 Mill street, South Gardiner, Mass., was told by the doctors. His son had lung trouble, following typhoid malaria, and he spent $375 with doctors, who finally gave him up, saying: "Your boy won't live a month." He tried Dr. King's New Discovery and a few bottles restored him to health and enabled him to go to work a perfectly well man. He says he owes his present good health to the use of Dr. King's New Discovery, and knows it to be the best in the world for lung trouble. Trial bottles free at J. James Wood's drug store.

Newspaper Profits in London.

There was a trial before Mr. Justice Cave recently which, if correctly reported, shows what is the profit of the shareholders of The Times. Mr. Adams bought one-fourteenth of two-thirds of one-ninth of two-sixteenths (or 1-1,512) of The Times from Mr. Brodie for £853 on the assurance that this minute share was worth about £25 per annum. According to him, after he had purchased the share, he found it only to be worth £17 a year. On this he asked for damages. The jury assessed the damages at £65. Assuming this share to be worth £18 per annum (which seems about the average value), it is clear that the net dividend on all shares is £97,316. Mr. Adams, believing it to be worth £353, paid for it 14.1 years' purchase. The jury valued it at £388, which, taking the annual return at £18, would be 16 years' purchase, making The Times worth £435,456. This, however, does not quite correctly, I believe, represent the value, for Mr. Walter, as printer, derives a large profit on an old contract. This contract, in point of fact, represents what may be called preference shares, while those of the shareholders may be termed ordinary shares, the value of The Times being the sum total of both.—London Truth.

The old story of Prometheus is a parable. Prometheus was on terms of intimacy with the gods. From them he stole fire, and gave it to men. For this sin he was bound to the rocks of Mount Caucasus, and vultures were set upon him. They only ate his liver. This grew again as fast as it was pecked away. Are his sufferings to be imagined?

Take a modern interpretation of the parable. There is no cooking; without fire. In cooking and eating the mischief lies. The stomach is overtasked, the bowels become clogged, they cannot dispose of the food given them. The impurities back up on the liver. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is more than equal to the vultures of dyspepsia and its kindred diseases. There is no more need of suffering from dyspepsia than there is of hanging one's self. Sold by all medicine dealers the world over.

THE SENATORIAL MUDDLE.

Belief by Some That Governor Bradley Has the Right to Name Blackburn's Successor.

[Enquirer.]

FRANKFORT, Ky., January 20.—During all the recent discussion of the Senatorial situation in Kentucky no one has ever quoted the statutes bearing on the subject, and it seems to have been agreed, by common consent, that individual opinion would be allowed to govern rather than the statutes in the election or appointment of a United States Senator, Section 1,547 of the Kentucky Statutes reads as follows:

Whenever, on the meeting of a Legislature of this State, a vacancy shall exist in the representation of said State in the Senate of the United States, said Legislature shall proceed, on the second Tuesday after the commencement and organization of its session, to elect a person to fill such vacancy in the manner herein provided for the election of a Senator for the full term; and if a vacancy shall happen during the session of the Legislature, then on the second Tuesday after the Legislature shall have been organized and shall have notice of the vacancy.

As to the last sentence in this section a new point has been raised. Suppose Governor Bradley would call the extra session for the first, second or third day of March, then the vacancy would occur during the session of the Legislature. This being so, the statute provides the Legislature "shall have notice of the vacancy." This notice must come from the Governor, of course, but suppose the Governor fails to give notice of the vacancy in his message calling the extra session, or by special message after the Legislature meets. What is to be done? Can the Legislature assume it as a fact that there is a vacancy and hold an election any-how?

Presumably, no. Then why cannot the Governor appoint Blackburn's successor, decline to notify the Legislature of the vacancy, and thus force the solons to devote their energies to other matters of more interest to the welfare of the State than the election of a Senator?

Of course, these points have been raised on the idea that an extra session will be called. If it is not called, of course, the Governor can appoint, and the appointee will hold till the new Legislature meets in January, 1898, and elects his successor.

The next question that naturally arises is this: Suppose the Governor appoints Blackburn's successor on March 5 and calls the extra session some days or weeks later, can the Legislature go ahead and elect a Senator anyhow, provided notice of the vacancy is given? The answer to this is that the United States Senate has held that such an election is valid, but the belief here is that the legislative friends of the man appointed by Governor Bradley would prevent the election of any one to succeed the appointee.

Governor Bradley is no novice in politics. He has read the statutes, and is saying nothing, but is sawing wood. He has his own ideas about this Senatorial muddle, and is keeping them to himself. He knows right now what he will do when the time comes, and how it will all turn out, but he is "layin' low and sayin' nothin'." The other fellows are doing the guessing, and that is all they can do, as the Governor holds the key to the situation, and no one knows how or when he will unlock.

They Have Not Been Idle.

We understand from good authority that Messrs. John T. Martin & Co. have spent a big part of the present month taking an inventory of their stock, and finding that in their big cut-price sale of December last they had sold nearly all of their cheap goods, leaving the medium and best grades of clothing on their hands, they have decided to close out their entire stock of heavy-weight goods at prices that will not only startle the merchants but the public generally. Unfortunately for the poorer class, everything will be sold for cash, and only those who have money can take advantage of this opportunity, which scarcely ever offers itself but once in a lifetime. If we are rightly informed this sale will commence February 1st and continue until March 1st. Every one who can raise a dollar should invest it in clothing, as such bargains will likely never be offered in our midst again.

The Floor Collapsed.

During a musicale at the home of ex-Senator Dudley Phillips in Manchester this week sixty people were in the parlor when the floor gave way. One lamp was overturned, and the burning oil spread so rapidly over the carpet that it was extinguished with difficulty. Another lamp was overturned, but it was caught. One of the young ladies jumped through a heavy window, and several gentlemen were slightly burned.

UNLUCKY 74.

An Engine on the C. and O. That is Known As "the Man Killer."

[Covington Commonwealth.]

As a rule all locomotives numbered 13 are looked upon as unlucky, not only by some of the engineers and firemen, but by the traveling public in general. It seems that some travelers before entering the train notice the number of the engine, and if they find that it is 13 they will lay over for the next train.

None but superstitious people of course pay attention to the number. The C. and O. has an engine number 13. It has not met with any misfortune and the engineer and fireman never dream or think about it only when they reach their destination at either end of the road and make out their reports of the number of miles they run for the day and the number of their engine.

Engine 74 is considered the wicked iron horse on that road and is known as the man killer.

The engineer is Mr. Clements and the conductor, Mr. Lamberton, both clever gentlemen. They have few equals in their profession but seem to have a monopoly of accidents.

The engine has killed no less than six people in the last month, thus bringing sorrow to the homes of the unfortunate, yet the accidents were all unavoidable, no blame being attached to Mr. Clements in any instance.

The worst accident of all was the killing of a man and two ladies near Concord while returning home from a party in a vehicle. Two men were killed at Maysville, and the last man being killed at Augusta Sunday night.

All of these accidents were unavoidable and no reflections have been cast upon any of the train's crew. They all regret exceedingly the unpleasant notoriety attained by No. 74 for her many fatalities and trust that the end of the list has been reached.

THE Cincinnati Post says: "Following the example of the Maysville and Aberdeen sports, who have managed to pull off recently several cocking mains on the Ohio River in the vicinity of the above named towns, Covington and Cincinnati bird fanciers are arranging for a series of fights to take place on the Ohio. A ferryboat, it is stated, has been engaged and will be fitted up with a pit for the fights. Invitations are already out and the first main is expected to take place some night next week. Only those known to be interested in the sport have been invited, and every effort will be made to prevent the humane officers from interfering with the fights."

THE Ledger's Springdale correspondent pays the following tribute to the late Henry C. Barkley: "The death of Mr. Henry C. Barkley has cast a gloom over this community that probably the death of no other man in Maysville could have done. Every honest man on Cabin Creek looked upon Mr. Barkley as a personal friend, and a visit to Maysville, no matter how brief, was hardly felt to be complete without a cordial grasp of his hand and the cheery greeting that was ever ready for the friends and neighbors of his boyhood. Honor to his memory."

THE question of what fees Police Judges are entitled to when sitting as examining courts was decided by the Court of Appeals recently in favor of the Police Judges, with three of the seven members of the court dissenting. This decision by so narrow a majority came before January 1, before the changes in the make-up of the Court. It is reported now that an attempt by the Commonwealth, through the Auditor and Attorney General, is to be made to get this question up again before the new court. A petition for a rehearing in the case has been filed.

SUDDEN SUMMONS.

Death of Mr. John W. McCormick at 8 O'clock This Morning After a Brief Illness.

Mr. John W. McCormick died very suddenly at 8 o'clock this morning at the home of his sister, Mrs. W. W. Watkins, on Forest avenue.

Deceased had been complaining since last Saturday, but was not thought to be seriously ill, and was able to sit up last evening.

This morning, at the hour named, his sister stepped out of the room to get him some medicine. When she returned a few minutes later she was shocked to find him dead. His death is attributed to consumption.

Deceased was a son of the late Michael McCormick, and was thirty-five years old.

The funeral arrangements have not been completed. The burial will be in the Maysville Cemetery.

THE CHARGE DISMISSED.

Joseph Ryan Discharged For the Killing of Sheridan Shaw.

Some time last November Sheridan Shaw was killed during a quarrel at Valley, Lewis County, by Mr. Joseph Ryan, formerly of this city.

The preliminary investigation at the time showed that Shaw was the aggressor, and that Ryan tried to avoid any trouble with him.

It also showed that Ryan had been slashed across the face and throat and dangerously wounded and was in danger of losing his life, when he struck the fatal blow.

His many friends were satisfied at the time that he had acted in self defense.

The grand jury at Vanceburg investigated the killing this week, and on Thursday dismissed the charge against Ryan.

WHEN a person steps on a wire door-mat which has been placed before the entrance of the new city market of Springfield, Mass., the doors are opened by electricity. An electric motor using 110-volt current furnishes the power for winding up a coil spring and closes the doors when the circuit is broken; a step upon the mat releases the spring which opens the door.

IN a recent speech at Hampton, Booker T. Washington, the noted negro orator, said: "As a race, I believe we are to work out our salvation, work it out with pen and ink, work it out with square and compass, work it out with spade and plow, work it out with horsepower and steampower, work it out on the farm, in the shop, school-room, sewing-room, the office and in all of life's callings. As before the war the negro was bound to the white man by slavery, so now he must be bound to him by community of interest."

AN anti-cigarette bill is pending in the Indiana Legislature, making it unlawful to sell or give away cigarettes or cigarette wrappers without a license from County Commissioners. License fee for wholesalers is fixed at $50, and for retailers at $200. No license is to be issued to any one who has sold cigarettes to any one under sixteen years of age within the past two years. In addition to the county license, city and town licenses must be taken out, but the fee there is not to exceed $50. It is made unlawful for any person under eighteen years of age to have in his or her possession a cigarette or cigarette wrapper. A fine of $100 is attached as the penalty for violation of any part of the act.

A Bird That Shaves Itself.
The lammergeyer, or bearded vulture, found throughout the whole mountain chains of the old world, actually shaves himself. The expert barber, who has for his customers crusty millionaires, could not ply the keen edged razor to the stubby beard of his particular patron more deftly than the monarch of the mountain tops prunes his own bristly beard.

The head of the vulture is clothed with feathers, and from the sides of the under mandible proceeds a row of black bristles. From this peculiar projection of feathers the bird derives his name. A layer of similar bristles begins at the eye and covers the nostrils, forming a fleecy mustache.

With his strong and sharp claws, which act as the razor, he begins to trim his fibrous whiskers with great care and dexterity. He does this with great regularity, and soon the downy beard and mustache give way to a full growth of bristly feathers.—San Francisco Examiner.

All That Was Lacking.
He had been away on a business trip for quite a long time and had brought his wife a handsome fan on his return. "It's just perfectly lovely, Harry," she said. "It's the daintiest and most beautiful fan I ever saw."
"I'm glad you like it," he returned, with evident gratification.
"How could I help liking anything so pretty?" she asked, and then she added, with a sigh, "I only wish I could carry it some time."

"Why can't you?" he demanded.
"No gown to go with it," she answered promptly. "There ought to be a gown to match, or at least one that wouldn't look shabby beside it, if"—
She got the gown. He kicked himself for two days, and ever thereafter fought fans to match what she already had.—Chicago Post.

Good For a Paragraph.
A well known Dublin journalist tells the following anecdote:

One night as a messenger from the office of an evening paper was passing along the quays on the banks of the Liffey he heard the sound of some one struggling in the water.

"Are you drowning?" he shouted.
"I am," replied a feeble voice from the water.

"What a pity!" said the lad consolingly. "You are just too late for the last edition tonight, but cheer up—you'll have a nice little paragraph all to yourself in the morning."

Many think

when it was said to the woman: "In sorrow shalt thou bring forth children" that a perpetual curse was pronounced, but such is not the case. True, dangers lurk in the pathway of the expectant mother and should be avoided.

"Mother's Friend"

so prepares the system for the change taking place that the final hour is robbed of all danger and pain. Its use insures safety to the life of both mother and child, and makes childbirth easy and recovery more rapid.

"Mother's Friend" is the greatest remedy ever put on the market, and my customers praise it highly.—W. H. King & Co., Whitehall, Tex.

ILLINOIS' REPRESENTATIVE.

Lyman J. Gage of Chicago May Be in McKinley's Cabinet.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 22.—Lyman J. Gage of Chicago is the latest addition to the president-elect's official family. He will probably be secretary of the treasury. A gentleman in this city, as conversant with the situation as anyone can be outside of Major McKinley himself or his confidential advisers, said Mr. Gage was being considered for the position, and that his friends were urging his appointment. It was further stated that Major McKinley had sent an emissary to see Mr. Gage at his home in Chicago, and ascertain whether or not the latter would accept the portfolio if tendered him.

The source from which the authority for the statement comes is beyond question. Further strength to the statement is added, if such be possible, from the fact that Senator Cullom of Illinois, who has been dropped, if being the desire of Major McKinley to have Mr. Cullom remain in the senate, as there is no telling what might turn up should the McKinley forces of Illinois attempt to replace him, with the present legislature so badly torn up.

Threaten Total Destruction.
CROWN POINT, Ind., Jan. 22.—Barney Whitlock, Alfred Taylor and the Blackburn boys, who participated in the pitched battle at Tolleston, Tuesday, waived examination and will remain in jail until the grand jury shall meet next week. Sheriff Hayes said that he had received word from Hobart that 300 men there are wild with indignation, and say they will go to Tolleston and blow up all the buildings of the hunting club. The sheriff says, however, that he doesn't think this will occur.

Caused by a Defective Flue.
STEVENSVILLE, O., Jan. 22.—At Irondale James Paisley's three-story dwelling and contents, a two-story house occupied by Robert Starkey, with contents, Morrison's saloon, Duck's barber shop and the Arcade general store, with contents, were burned to the ground yesterday. Paisley's loss is $6,000; insurance, $1,000. The other losers had no insurance. The total loss is between $10,000 and $15,000. The fire started from a defective flue.

Blew Out the Gas.
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—W. H. Misner of Lanark, Ill., was found dead in his room at the Snug hotel yesterday, asphyxiated. He had blown out the gas. There was no indication of suicide. Misner had a wooden leg and it is thought he was a war veteran.

Indications.
Generally fair weather except on the lake; light local snows; brisk southwest winds; warmer Friday, colder Saturday.

ONLY TWO ESCAPED.

Details of the Recent Massacre of the British Expedition to Benin City.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—A dispatch just received from Lagos, capital of the British West African colony of that name, gives details of the massacre of the British expedition under Consul General J. R. Phillips by the inhabitants of Benin City, early during the present month. The party consisted of Consul General Phillips, Major P. W. G. Copland-Crawford, deputy commissioner and vice consul in the Niger coast protectorate and adjoining native territories; Captain A. M. Boisragon, commandant of the Niger coast protectorate forces; Captain Malling of the Sixteenth lancers; an officer of the Niger coast protectorate force, Mr. R. F. Locke of the consular staff; Mr. H. C. Campbell of the consular staff; Dr. R. H. Elliott, medical adviser, and Messrs. Powis and Gordon, civilians.

The party was unarmed and was proceeding to Benin City, in order to make a request for a palace, or conference with King Oba, in regard to increasing the trading facilities with that part of Africa, the king having previously consented that the expedition should visit his capital. The nine officers were unarmed in order to impress the king with the peaceful character of their mission, and over 200 native carriers were taken with the party to propel the canoes and carry presents intended for the king.

After proceeding up the river the expedition landed at a spot about 15 miles from Benin City and the carriers were sent ahead through the dense jungle, the officers following. Five miles from Benin City the officers suddenly came upon a narrow defile which was filled with the dead carriers, who were fearfully mutilated. Almost immediately afterward the officers and their servants were surrounded and attacked by hundreds of savages, armed with guns, cutlasses, spears and clubs, and in a few minutes all the members of the party, excepting Boisragon and Locke, were killed.

Captain Boisragon and his companion, after wandering in the bush for a week, living on plantains and drinking dew, succeeded in reaching New Benin, wounded and exhausted, bringing the first authentic news of the massacre.

The affair is looked upon as deserving of the sending of a punitive expedition to Benin City, known as the City of Blood, on account of its being the seat of the Fetish priests of that part of Africa and because human sacrifices are of frequent occurrence, the remains of sacrificed slaves being seen bleaching in the sun on all sides.

The British warships Phoebe, Widgion, Alecto, Thesens and Forte have already been dispatched to the entrance of the river Benue. British officers left Liverpool for the same coast Saturday and munitions of war will follow on Saturday next.

MINING INDUSTRY.

A General Inquiry May Be Made by Congress.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Senator Perkins of California has introduced a bill which is intended to pave the way to the establishment of a bureau or department of the government to be devoted to the mining industry.

The resolution recites by way of preamble that the mining interests of the United States have no clear representation in the organization of the government, and it provides for the appointment of a commission to be composed of the commissioners of the general land office, the commissioner of labor and the director of the geographical survey, "whose duty it shall be to determine the best method of ascertaining all the facts of general importance relating to mines and mining within the United States, whether by a mining bureau, a secretary of mines and mining, a commissioner of mines, or a commission, and to report to the secretary of the interior a bill providing for securing all necessary information concerning mining and related industries in the United States."

BANK PRESIDENT ARRESTED.

He Is Charged With Making False Entries on the Books of the Bank.

LOUISVILLE, Jan. 22.—J. M. McKnight, president of the German National bank, which was closed Monday by Bank Examiner Escott, acting under orders from Comptroller Eckels, surrendered himself to Marshal Blackburn yesterday afternoon, to answer a warrant sworn out by Bank Examiner Escott in the United States court, charging him with making false entries on the books of the bank, of which he was president. He was taken before Commissioner Speed, waived an examination and was released on bonds of $5,000. The trial was set for Feb. 23.

Bank Examiner Escott refused to make public the evidence on which he bases the charge, but intimated that the case would be vigorously prosecuted.

ADULTERATED WOOL.

One More Serious Result of Tinkering With the Tariff.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Much of the wool which is exported in large quantities from Russia to the United States, entering principally at New York and Philadelphia, is being largely adulterated with "sour wool" gathered from the clippings of sheepskins made into clothing.

This "sour wool," according to United States Consul Heenan at Odessa, is nearly worthless to our manufacturers. In anticipation of the taking of wool from the free list, large quantities are being hurried to the United States, and this contains from 10 to 12 per cent of the adulteration of which our manufacturers are ignorant but which could readily be detected by the customhouse inspectors.

"Tommy, I have told you again and again not to speak when older persons are talking, but wait until they stop."

"I have tried that already, mamma. But they never stop."—Chicago Record.
